All our $4.00 hats at $1.50. They consist of trimmed leghorns, short back sailors, chiffon hats and hats of every shape and style. DOWN IN SLUICES

A Heavy Rain Fall Visits This Section at Noon Today.

During the early forenoon a gentle rain set in and fell until the noon hour. Then and without warning the fall began to increase and was soon descending in slimes. The fall was very heavy for near an hour, but during this brief time the gutters had been filled to overflowing and the water in many parts of the town was becoming small lakes. Out in the western part the lowlands were filled and it remained the inhabitants of high water, while down in the city the streets became impassable and in a number of places the water ran over the sidewalks and into the business houses. In some places assistance had to be called to keep floor stock from being damaged. This was the case at the Third street home, of the Hart Hardware company, at Note, over by a C. O. S. at Robinson's drug store and at the Leader clothing house, and in doubt, elsewhere. Street bridges were swept away and the pavements made so impassable that the street cars could hardly be run and when reached the passengers could hardly find a landing place when ready to leave. There was no particular damage done so far as could be learned.

The rain seems to have been wide in territory. It is reported south and west for some distance, and in the Tennessee and Cumberland valleys is said to have been very heavy. Apparently the fall is not over.

Observer Horneman reported the rainfall at 2 o'clock to be 2.6 inches, and stated that it was the largest in many years for the time consumed, and perhaps the largest.
